

James Stonehouse

(Solicitor)

North Eastern Circuit

James Stonehouse was born in and grew up near Whitby, North Yorkshire, before moving to Sheffield, where he is now permanently based.

Having obtained a 2:1 honours degree in Law at the University of Durham and studying the Bar Vocational Course in Bristol, James has undertaken advocacy instructions since 2008.

James takes instructions in relation to all areas of law covered by LPC Law Ltd including fast track trials in personal injury and landlord and tenant proceedings, mortgage possessions, infant settlements, return of goods hearings and small claims.

James has enjoyed success in recovering contractual costs under leases in small claims hearings and in obtaining possession orders against tenants at initial appointments notwithstanding the suggestion of a potential disrepair claim.

James has experience of appeals relating to orders for possession and applications to suspend warrants of possession. He has a good knowledge of the rules and procedure relating to winding-up petitions and has experience of applying for and resisting applications to adjourn.

He has also appeared for a finance company in an application under the Police Property Act 1897 before a lay bench in the magistrates' court.
