Ben completed a general commercial law pupillage at a specialist commercial set in London.

Prior to being called to the Bar, Ben held academic positions at various universities researching in Public and Administrative Law. His research contributed to the first report by the European Parliament on mutual legal assistance.

Ben is building a practice in a range of civil areas including Personal Injury, Commercial and Chancery, Professional Negligence and Property Law.

Ben is therefore able to assist with the following:

- Mortgage disputes including technical defences
- Residential Landlord and Tenant
- Claims for disrepair
- Leasehold and service charge litigation
- Boundary disputes (including matters where allegations of harassment or nuisance are raised)
- Applications under the Party Walls etc. Act 1996
- Applications under the Access to Neighbouring Land Act 1992
- Applications for orders for sale
- Trespass
- Planning
- Equitable remedies

Owing to Ben's long standing academic interest in public and administrative law, Ben is able to assist in claims involving public bodies.
